

Bringing Biblical Principles of Governance

38 things you have gone through in 13 months

Greetings My Friends,

Wonder why you feel “disoriented?” (All morally upstanding Americans feel that way right now.)

Wonder why you feel at times like you are alone? (You aren’t. At least half of America – maybe more – is with you. It is a tool of the enemy to make you feel alone.)

Want to know why you are battling discouragement regarding our nation? (Discouragement is the most prized tool of Satan. Admittedly, there is reason to be concerned. Disappointment is allowed. Do not allow discouragement to take hold of your life.)

Wonder why you sometimes quietly ponder at times “am I losing my mind?” (You aren’t – but the “Disinformation Gestapo” wants you to think you are. Look up the word “gaslighting.” They are doing this to us all on purpose. Their goal: To keep us off-balance by flooding us with intentional untruths. This is not misinformation. This is willful disinformation.)

Wonder why you find yourself saying, “Has the world gone crazy?” (Well, yes, much of it has. We are seeing the ugly head of the demonic world. You are not crazy. They are.)

Ever feel like things are closing in, like freedom is being lost, as if liberty is evaporating? (You are not incorrect. Regretfully, those things really are happening.)

Ever feel like Socialism or maybe if even Communism – or even a “spirit of Nazism” – is taking control of our nation? (You are not alone in your views. Unfortunately, it is happening. But we will stand. Keep reading. We will not give up. Ever.)

Ever notice that all the persons who are here in our nation who were once under Communism (such as Eastern Europe) or under the Nazis (Holocaust survivors) are all saying “We have seen this. We know how this story ends. It is not good.” (Unfortunately, they are correct.)

Ever feel like a certain portion of America’s pastors are not really pastors, but (as the Bible calls them) “hirelings.” (Apparently that is the case. The good news: Some – many? – are true shepherds. Find the true shepherds. Attend their churches.)

Ever feel like some pastors are afraid of the government, and using Covid to hide their cowardice? (Well, it appears that some are. The good news: Some – many? – are courageous!)

Now bear with me. The news will get better. But we are going to try to answer WHY you feel the way you do.

You have been through so much – in just 13 months. The America that existed on March 14, 2020, does not exist now. It is gone.

The question is, “is it gone forever?” Well, at times, it sure feels that way.

Here is an incomplete list of 38 things that you have been through in approximately 13 months – only 390 days. There are more, but I am only listing 38 here.

1. Covid-19

At first, we were not sure. We obeyed, complied with the government – for the “two-week” “flattening of the curve,” remember? By week five we knew that something was wrong. By week eight we knew we were being manipulated.

Now to be clear, I take the disease very seriously. Very. I was extremely sick with Covid19. I ended up in the hospital. My doctor used the phrase, “You almost died with Covid.” So I take the disease seriously. I do not minimize it at all. But I do not accept the manipulation of statistics and the governmental overreach.

2. Masks

Humans were not made for masks. If God intended for that, he would have created us with a big flap of skin from ear to ear. We are made to see each other, look at each other, watch facial expressions, read lips, see smiles. Masks are abnormal. When coerced, they become manipulative and dehumanizing. And that last word is key: We have been de-humanized. That is serious.

3. Social distancing

Humans are made for contact, for touch. They are not created to be six feet apart. This again reduces our humanity.

4. Massive lockdowns of businesses, school, public places

We are made for assembly, gathering for worship, learning, fun and commerce. It is not by accident that we have seen a massive and tragic spike in suicides.

5. Staggering government overreach

2020 marked huge losses. But the greatest loss is loss of trust. Trust is everything. When trust goes, there is nothing left. Americans have lost trust in government, the national medical and pharma hierarchy, and even in elections. No one on March 14th of 2020 could have predicted where we would be in 390 days. The disdain for our Constitutional rights by national, state and city elected officials has been stunning.

6. Shutdown of churches

At first (March 2020), pastors appropriately complied. But in time, it became apparent that the public was being manipulated.

If 2020 and early 2021 were to be characterized by three words, it would be (as noted above) “loss of trust.” Many American Christians witnessed something they never thought they would see: Their pastors cowering in fear, with no backbone, catering to anti-First Amendment rules and regulations – not to mention anti-Biblical principles – all the while spiritualizing it.

Churches that reopened on Pentecost Sunday – May 31, 2020 – or shortly thereafter – began to grow. People began to drive long distances to come under the teaching of pastors who had the courage of Peter and John before the Sanhedrin. What was most ironic was the fact that some persons began attending churches, openly stating that they were not Christians and had no interest in what the church had to offer, but started attending simply because they respected the fact that some pastors understood their Constitutional rights and wanted to support them.

Admittedly, persons with comorbidities and the vulnerabilities (age and weight) might legitimately choose not to attend in person. But most persons – perhaps 80% or more of the population? – was at low risk, and should most certainly have the opportunity to attend their church in person.

The good news: Many pastors opened their churches. The bad news: Some of those who rightly, safely and Constitutionally opened their churches faced threats, bullying, intimidation, fines, and even jail time. The worst news: Many pastors – “hiding behind the (proverbial) skirts” of “we don’t want to kill grandma” kept their churches closed, as drug and alcohol use, domestic violence and suicide spiraled. The blood is on their hands.

One prominent megachurch pastor in Atlanta, midway through 2020 tragically announced that he was closing his church for the rest of the year, because “we would only have 20% of our people show up.” And how much was 20% in his case? Answer: 8,000. He would not open for 8,000 people! Heaven only knows – well, hell knows too – the massive damage that was done to his congregation for his closing the church for so many months.

Another megachurch pastor in Atlanta boldly reopened his church in a timely, prudent, and safe fashion, but vast numbers of Atlanta Christians had been poisoned by the “Jesus would keep his church closed” logic and harshly criticized the pastor who wanted to minister in person.

What is at stake here? Lots. The entire story of Jesus coming to earth is that of “incarnation,” that is, the “in-fleshment” of God on earth. That is the very foundation for “incarnational ministry,” that is, when we become “little Christs” (Martin Luther’s words) to one another.

A computer screen is great, but it is only two dimensional. When we are in person, we are three dimensional – the way God created us to see our surroundings – and we are “in-fleshed” or “incarnated,” as Jesus was. It is flesh and blood reaching out to one another.

7. Economic collapse of businesses

The actual economic impact on Americans is likely incalculable. People's entire lives and dreams were destroyed – in a few weeks or months – and the government despots did not care. Huge box stores were kept open. “Mom and Pop stores” – the backbone of America's economy – were closed and eventually shuttered. Retirement plans were decimated. If I had told you during the booming economy on March 14, 2020 that tens of thousands of businesses would be destroyed over the next year, you would not have believed me. But it did happen. It was not a bad dream. It was reality.

8. Increased loss of liberty, freedom

As Americans, we pride ourselves in our Constitution and the Bill of Rights. Never ever did you think that the First Amendment would be overrun by power hungry governors and egotistical mayors.

9. Increased loss of trust in governmental leaders

The biggest loss of 2020 was not in life and property. As noted, it was the loss of trust, most notably in government leaders. In the 2017-2019 timeframe, we saw so many Americans lose trust in top level leadership at the FBI and the CIA, the governmental law enforcement institutions which had historically been highly respected. But 2020 resulted in a massive loss of respect for government leaders in general, on a scale we had not seen before.

10. Loss of trust in national medical figures

While there are some who hold to the notion that Dr. Fauci has credibility, he has become a laughing stock to much of America. Americans historically trust their family doctor. However, many have lost trust in the CDC and other federal medical agencies. Their inconsistencies (no mask-one mask-three masks-six feet, no three feet) has taken its toll.

11. The gruesome, nationally viewed death of George Floyd

This was the one moment when all Americans were emotionally together. I naively thought the nation could, with one voice, address bona fide racism. Not so. The radical leftist extremists did not want racial healing. They wanted to destroy a nation. Thus, they burned down many of our cities, impacting the businesses of so many minorities. What they want is violence and destruction. Some naïve White pastors got sucked into it and started posting their little black squares on social media, instead of dealing with racism with honest and effective means. A squandering of what could have been a profound moment!

12. Riots in many American cities with significant loss of life and massive property damage

The Democrat Party was once a halfway noble party, seemingly to care for the poor. But its new radicalized version is merely to grab power. Democratic governors and mayors refused to work with a Republican

President to bring an end to the burning, looting, theft and murder. They allowed it to continue, for six months. Then candidate Joe Biden waited 100 days before finally issuing a feeble statement on the violence.

13. The rise and worship of BLM, Critical Race Theory, Social Justice Warriors, White guilt, shaming and fragility

Nothing was more irrational about 2020 than the rise of classism theories on the part of the elites in an effort to divide Americans against each other. BLM was and is (by the words of its founders) Marxist. BLM openly attacks the nuclear family, advocating for homosexual so-called “marriage” and for transgenderism. Its three founders are openly anti-Semitic and practice African pagan religions.

Counting up points for the oppressed and the oppressor, Critical Race Theory contends that a (1) woman who is (2) young, (3) Black, and (4) homosexual is automatically oppressed by an (1) older, (2) White (3) Christian (4) male. But, the CRT advocates have no answer for questions like this, “How does an incapacitated elderly White Pentecostal man living alone in a trailer park in Tennessee, oppress a 30-year old tenured Black lesbian female, who teaches ‘gender studies’ at Harvard?” CRT is not about justice. It is about creating divisions. It is designed to layer on guilt, meaning that Jesus’ death on the cross is not enough for your sins. You are still under condemnation, unless... unless you become “woke” and admit (if you are White) that you are a racist and an oppressor.

Social Justice Warriors – who claimed to be Christians – never understood that “social gospel” is fundamentally Marxist, in contrast to Biblical justice. The elites continue to force upon the deplorables that “All Whites are privileged and racists.” Some shallow thinking evangelical pastors fell for this and asked their White congregants to apologize for being – you guessed it – “White!”

14. The Nazi-like cancel culture obliteration of anything deemed offensive by the mobs or ruling party

Not since the 1930s, in Germany under the Nazis, has Western Civilization experienced the modern version of the “book burning.” We will cancel you if you disagree.

15. The banning of conservatives from social media by Big Tech

Starting with the President of the United States, the most massive controller on all the earth – Big Tech – flexed their muscles and cancelled anyone who dared share anything that Big Tech did not like. This global powerhouse has the overtones of the spirit of Anti-Christ.

By the way, thus far, I have been banned by Facebook twice:

1. Once for pointing out that Facebook was banning conservatives. So, they banned me. Do you get the irony of that?
2. A second time for citing a study that showed that HCQ (Hydroxychloroquine) had been effective. I protested that they banned me, and followed the procedure. Finally, I was notified that they could not respond back to me because too many of their staff were ill with Covid19. Do you get the irony of that? I was banned for posting what many doctors feel is a legitimate medical answer to Covid, but they could not get back to me because they were too sick with Covid!

16. A vitriolic election between President Donald Trump and former Vice President Joe Biden

So intense were feelings that relationships were broken and some families were split.

17. Voting irregularities and charges of fraud

Many questions emerged quickly after November 3:

1. Why were state legislatures, which have the authority to pass election laws, bypassed by those who did not have legal and constitutional authority?
2. Why were dead people, underage and illegal people voting, not to mention ballot harvesting happening, along with questionable collection of ballots from drop boxes?
3. Were the Dominion machines dependable or were they manipulated?
4. Why did the counting suddenly stop after midnight and suddenly change after that?
5. Were election officials dishonest and thus not allowing independent or Republican observers?
6. When the probabilities are considered, why is it that Joe Biden could not have won?

18. Loss of trust in voting procedures

All of the above resulted in half of America – or more? – now viewing its election procedures as being no different from those of a “Banana Republic,” that is, manipulated and dishonest.

19. Accusations of being a “domestic terrorist” if one raised questions about the election

Most bizarre were the bullying efforts on the part of key Biden officials and the mainstream media to label anyone who even questioned the election to be a “domestic terrorist.”

20. Loss of trust in the court system to examine any potential evidence

The refusal of courts to examine the evidence – usually on the basis of “lack of legal standing” – infuriated half the nation and has caused a permanent (or so it appears) loss of trust in America’s elections. That is an extremely serious situation for any nation.

21. The January 5, 2021 two hotly contested Senate elections in Georgia, which would determine the future of the entire nation

Considering the fact that the same voting machines were used, and that the two persons elected may be two of the most inept persons elected to the U.S. Senate in modern times, people once again had questions about the integrity of the election.

22. A January 6th breach of the U.S. Capitol Building

While the incursion was wrong, it was not an insurrection. People should not have entered the Capitol Building illegally. There is no defense for doing that. But the Left and the media's screaming about this incident – serious as it was – while being silent about six months of burning, looting, rioting, and killing by radical Leftists caused any thinking person to never be able to trust the media again. Given the fact that not one person coming into the Capitol Building was armed, why was a young woman shot and killed? Who shot her? Why? Why have we heard nothing about her tragic death?

23. Surrounding the Capitol Building by military troops and a massive wall with razor wire

The theatrical stunt pulled off by Speaker of the House Nancy Pelosi – remember her? She is the lady who tore up President's State of the Union address in a tantrum of a three-year old – has turned the once beautiful Washington, D.C. into a Communist city.

Until I recently went to Washington, D.C., I naively assumed that the wall was only around the Capitol Building. It isn't. It has a circumference of nearly four miles, and encircles many buildings and closes many streets. I was stunned.

24. A tense Inauguration

It was not tense because there was any credible threat of violence. There was not. It was tense because half the country felt that the election had been stolen. (Does my saying that make me a "domestic terrorist?")

25. A flurry of Biden Executive Orders

I am opposed to presidents – Republican or Democrat - using executive orders unless there is a real, bona fide national crisis. But no president has ever abused the executive order like Joe Biden. He seemingly has no awareness that the U.S. Constitution states that we have a legislative branch. "King Joe" does not know he is not king.

26. A nearly $2 trillion payoff to Democratic states under the guise of "Covid relief"

Blue states got paid off via a supposed "Covid relief" bill, with 91% of the nearly $2 trillion going to things unrelated to Covid, likely the biggest financial theft ever done.

27. Increased taxes to raise the $2 trillion scam

Now the discussion is to coerce the masses to pay for Biden's "relief" bill scam.

28. Massive pressure to receive the vaccine

Offering the vaccine to people who want it might be a good thing. Pressuring people to put something into their body that they do not want is barbaric and evil.

29. Talk of a vaccine passport

In a further effort to coerce people, there is discussion to restrict people's movement if they do not take the vaccine by issuing a special passport. New York State already has a version of this in a special card.

30. The fall of Cuomo

The most stunning example of hypocrisy of all time: New York Governor Andrew Cuomo getting an Emmy, known as the The Founders Award, which annually recognizes an individual or group that "crosses cultural boundaries to touch our common humanity," while he was killing approximately 15,000 people through his inept handling of the Covid pandemic. Adding insult to injury, this same governor who said "we must always believe the women," refuses to believe the long line of women who have accused him of sexual misconduct, while behind the scenes trying to control how any investigation would be done. Humpty Dumpty Cuomo.

31. Taxation globally

The Secretary of the Treasury is now suggesting that all countries adopt an identical taxation schedule to keep people and companies who want to leave the U.S. from being able to do so, as a further attempt to block freedom of movement, as the noose further tightens on the American population.

32. The highly destructive legislative proposal known as HR1

This is a way to take all that was evil and vile in the 2020 elections and make it permanent. HR1 would virtually destroy the Republic as we have known it.

33. The equally destructive HR5

The Biden administration would effectively criminalize authentic biblical Christianity.

34. The boycotting of Georgia

IDs are required in all of life. But Biden wants voters to provide no proof, apparently opposed to honest elections. The CEO of Delta condemns Georgia for requiring an ID for the most important thing a person can do in a democracy, that is, vote, while requiring every person on his planes to provide an ID to ride from one city to another. Hypocrite. The CEO of Coca-Cola opposes the ID, while requiring them for the alcoholic drinks that they manufacture. Hypocrite. MLB (Major League Baseball) became dyslexic and is now BLM (Black Lives Matter). And MLB still requires an ID at "Will Call." Hypocrites.

35. Two beloved Governors messed up

South Dakota Governor Kristi Noem and Arkansas Governor Asa Hutchinson – two revered conservatives, or so we thought – lacked clear thinking on transgender legislation – transgendered athletes and chemical castration, respectively – and managed to fall all over themselves when interviewed by Tucker Carlson. A tragic moment. Another verse in a very long song entitled, "Where Have All the Heroes Gone?" Both are trying to "dig out," but they unnecessarily harmed themselves.

36. The purging of the military of Trump supporters

This despicable, anti-Constitutional act might on its own spell the end of America, under the guise of Orwellian "extremism."

37. New executive orders to curtail or defy the Second Amendment

Joe Biden's desire to violate the U.S. Constitution is stunning.

38. The filibuster is now "racist"

The Democrats used the filibuster – a hallowed procedure of the more deliberate Senate – 327 times in 2020. The Republicans used it once. It was fine to the Democrats then, and in all the previous decades. But now, the Democrats – desiring to destroy that which they once acclaimed – insist that the filibuster has suddenly become "racist." Such astounding illogicality and hypocrisy.

And that is not even a complete list. I will stop there.

My point is this: There is a reason you feel disoriented, stunned, and at times very discouraged.

You are not crazy. They are. You are right. You see through all this. (The "they" referred to here are less persons as it is the spirit of deception that seems to control so many people. You are not contending against flesh and blood, but against principalities, powers, and wicked spirits. This is a spiritual battle, with prayer and fasting, and with the strategies that flow out of that).

You have been through so much – in just 13 months – only 390 days. As noted above, the America that existed on March 14, 2020, does not exist now. It is gone.

But, you will stand strong. God will help you.

We will stand together. God will help us all.

Lovers of God and His Word are made for a time like this. We will make it. The nation may or may not. Prayerfully and hopefully, it will, if we can stand strong and rescue it from those who are destroying it. But even if our nation does not make it, the true people of God will – either as the church here on this earth – or as the church triumphant – in heaven.

What are we facing? Let's state what this is not.

To be clear, this is not:

- Republican vs. Democrat
- Trump vs. Biden
- Right vs. Left

If you see it that way, you are wrong. If you read this newsletter through those lenses, you are missing the entire point.

Then what is at issue? It is:

- Right vs. Wrong
- Good vs. Evil
- Angelic Beings vs. Demonic Beings
- Truth vs. Falsehood
- Righteousness vs. Evil

Stand. Continue standing. Stand strong.

Pray. Fast. Pray some more.

Become informed. Choose who you listen to – carefully. Vet. Study the issues. Carefully. Become articulate on how to state the issues. Then state them. When you need to, recalibrate. Go back and study more. Relearn how to state the issues. Get back out there and stay at it. Do not back down.

Stay loving. (Hard to do.) But keep a smile on your face and joy in your heart. Go after faulty thinking without attacking the person. (Hard to do, but do it.)

You can. You – with God's help – will.
