Bringing Biblical Principles of Governance

Are some Evangelicals “for sale?” Yes.

Greetings Friends,

There are so many reasons for encouragement.

A few examples would be the incredible “The Return” event that took place recently in Washington DC with perhaps as many as 250,000 people attending, along with Franklin Graham’s Prayer Walk from the Lincoln Memorial to the US Capitol.

There are outstanding evangelical leaders across America taking bold and strong stands for biblical truth. Bottom line: there are many reasons to be encouraged.

However at the same time we are seeing some tragic capitulation on the part of some of those who claim to be Evangelical.

So bad is this compromise that a Soros-type individual was caught on camera saying that they could “rent in Evangelical.” To watch that video, CLICK HERE. And that is precisely what happens when you trace the funds from Soros organizations to the coffers of certain left-wing (pseudo) “Evangelicals.” It is disturbing. It is not fun to talk about topics like this but we still need to do it.

Listen for 12 minutes to this 27 year old investigative research researcher whose job is to track the flow of money - Hayden Ludwig - as he spoke at our recent Well Versed Day Summit in Washington DC on “Renting an Evangelical.”
