Greetings Friends,

You might want to share this particular newsletter with some of your friends.

Former NY State Gov. Eliot Spitzer

Former NJ State Gov. Jim McGreevy

In July of 2011, I was invited to be a guest on CNN's show called "In the Arena" with Host Eliot Spitzer, the former New York State Governor who had disgraced himself and was forced to leave office in 2008 because of his involvement with a prostitute. Right before me, Spitzer interviewed Jim McGreevy, former Governor of New Jersey who had disgraced himself with homosexual involvement – though he was married to a woman – and he had to leave office as well, in 2004. They discussed – get this – the biblical understanding of homosexuality!

I had to sit there and listen to their discussion before it was my turn. When it was my turn to be interviewed, notice how the questions went: “Do you agree with Pat Robertson about...?” “Can’t you see that the religious view of marriage is separate and different from ‘civil’ society’s view of marriage?” “Do you say that homosexuality is a sin?” None of these were the stated reason for which I was invited.

My goals were simple:

1. Not to argue against his view. Not to try to assert my view. But to state God’s view. That’s key.
2. In addition, I needed to stay highly focused, to present the indisputable facts about what had just happened – the known and documented corruption – in the New York State Legislature just days before over the destruction of the definition of marriage. I was invited on for the purpose of discussing the NY State legislative action. Key issue for me: Focus.

Not to argue against his view. Not to try to assert my view.
But to state God’s view. That’s key.

With that background, watch this most unusual and fairly intense interview.

What can we all learn from this?

Well, allow me to repeat the two points above. When you are in a discussion:

1. Present God’s Word. Let it stand. His Word convicts the heart. Don’t back down. You can be gracious and loving, but be direct.
2. Know the facts. Learn them from trusted sources. If you desire, check out my book Well Versed: Biblical Answers to Today’s Tough Issues which lays out the biblical foundations to 30 political topics. (Note: If you buy it by the case – 18 books - to give to your friends, I will sell it at my cost, with no profit.) Contact Pam@WellVersedWorld.org Present God’s Word. Let it stand. His Word convicts the heart.
